Hi Seth,

The PDC approved for presentation to each of the germane Committees the sections to be struck and the rewrites. I believe Kelli was present during at least one of those presentations. Following the approvals by the Committees, the PDC approved those partial temporary rules which are the rules we are currently negotiating. I hope this helps to clarify the process and please let me know if you have questions. - Kathleen

Hi Kathleen,

I want to follow up on Kelli's email. It was my understanding that there were parts of the rules that were struck and not rewritten. We advocated for a working group to be formed to negotiate those sections. Is the PDC choosing not to move forward with the sections that were removed and not rewritten? Regardless, I believe creating a "rules committee" would be beneficial in negotiating rule changes and preventing future conflict. Please let us know how you'd like to proceed, especially concerning the sections that were removed from the rules.

Hi Kelli,

I thought that the working group was an idea for significant changes beyond these rules. The stakeholders have been invited to the negotiated rulemaking meetings and we will send invitations to them for the public hearings as well. After meeting with stakeholders during the session, we reworked the 5 sections that IAC identified which are included in the 14 sections we asked the Committees to reject and that are now presented as temporary rules. The Commission truly welcomes input and wants comments during and following the negotiated phase as we go into the public hearings. As always, please let us know your thoughts. - Kathleen

Kathleen,

Thank you for getting the rulemaking process (which I have registered for) going so quickly after this crazy session. I do have a quick question though. I thought we were going to try and put together a working group to work through the rules as well as continue the negotiated rulemaking? This was what I remember from our meeting with the Chairman of the House and Senate Judiciary and Rules committees. Please let me know how I can be of assistance and if I am remembering correctly.

Thank you,

Kelli
